

SOUTHERN RISING

Bio:

Southern Rising is a symphonic black metal band from Montevideo, Uruguay. Formed in early 2020, their style and sound combine modern black metal elements with classical full orchestra passages and choral music arrangements.

Although the project is somehow young, band members are very experienced well known musicians from the local scene, coming from legacy bands from the 90's such as Requiem Aeternam, Zenith, Angkor-Vat, among others.

Their first single: Somniphobia, was introduced on February 2020, as an advance of their upcoming album.

Epic Tales of Evil is their debut album, released on October 31st, 2020. Its content has a mixture of pure symphonic black metal pieces, in combination with a cinematic-style story around the album.

On February 2022 they performed for the first time live at Carnival Fest Metal Camp, the biggest metal event in Uruguay, establishing a milestone following the long wait after their album release. From that point forward, the band had performed on several shows and festivals, and even supporting international acts (Gaerea, for example)

On February 2023 their newest single: Sic Semper Mortis was released, and during the second half of 2023, the band focused on finishing their next record. After the first shows of the year, on March 9th 2024 the second album was released: Australis Incarnata, marking a milestone for a band of this breed in Uruguay. The album contains the very same attributes that have depicted the project from the beginning: raw black metal roots with sharp riffs, mixed with atmospheric passages, adding a strong orchestral and choral arrangements, but with a polished layer of a serious production.

The band booked several concerts and festivals in Uruguay and Argentina through 2024 and 2025, as they keep presenting their latest album along the way.
